PRES. WILSON LAUNCHES OWN REELECTION BOOM; DECLARES PARTY MUST CONTINUE RULE

Delivers a Masterly Address at Jackson Day Celebration at Indianapolis, Ind.

Reviews Administration, Declaring It Most Important Since Civil War; Scores Republicans as Moss-Backed Aggregation of Reactionaries Opposing All Reforms

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 8.—President Wilson today voiced what a crowd of more than 4,000 people, assembled here to hear him make a Jackson day speech, interpreted as a hint that he might be a candidate for the presidency again in 1916. The people leaped to their feet and cheered until the president himself raised his hand and called for quiet.

The president had been discussing the Mexican question, and referred to his belief that he knew the temperament and principles of the American people, adding that he would not be fit to stay where he was if he did not understand them.

"There may come a time," he went on, "when the American people will have to judge whether I know what I am talking about or not."

There was a slight pause and then the crowd, which included the members of the Indiana legislature, jumped and began shouting and cheering. Realizing the construction which had been put on his words, the president held up his hand for silence and said:

"I did not mean to stir up anything. That was merely preparatory to saying that for at least two more years I am free to think I know the American people."

Attacks His Critics.

Previously the president had attacked the Republican party, defended the record of his administration on the Mexican policy and the tariff and currency questions and declared that a careful examination of the returns from the elections last November showed that if it had been a presidential year a Democrat would have had a majority of about 80 in the electoral college.

The president criticized Republican senators opposing the government ship purchase bill, whom he characterized as "self-styled friends of business." He said the Republican party has not had a new idea in 50 years, and that "the Republicans do not know how to do anything but sit on the lid." He added that if the country wants the ship purchase bill enacted into law and "will have it."

A warning to Democrats not to break up the solidarity of the Democratic party was given gravely by Mr. Wilson. He declared that any such men will not gain an enviable position for themselves and mentioned Senators Kern and Shively of Indiana as men whom he "did not have to be awake nights thinking about." He continued, that "if a man would play on a team he must get off the team," and later spoke of himself as the "captain of the Democratic team for the present."

Mexicans Must Have Liberty.

The president spoke briefly of Mexico. He said the people there are entitled to liberty, "no matter how long they take in determining it." Speaking slowly and carefully, he declared that "so far as my influence goes, while I am president, nobody shall interfere with them." He said that until the revolt against Diaz 80 per cent of the Mexicans never had a look in as to what should be their government.

"Have not European nations taken as long as they wanted and spilled as much blood as they pleased in settling their own affairs," he continued. "And shall we deny the same right in Mexico? No, I say."

Much of Mr. Wilson's address was devoted to the independent and progressive voters. He said that about one-third of the Republican party is progressive and about two-thirds of the Democratic party is progressive.

"Therefore," he added, "the Democratic party is more progressive than the Republican."

He declared most of the voters of the country are independent, but that it was his ambition to have them vote with the Democrats. He spoke of himself as an animated conservative.

Refers to European War.

Referring to the European war, the president said that the people of the United States should not pay too much attention to it, but should get their own affairs in such order that they can be of the greatest assistance to the countries fighting. He closed his address with the prayer that the time might come when the United States could be instrumental in restoring peace.

Business conditions were taken up briefly. He characterized talk of business depression as "a state of mind" and said that the Democratic party had already done much to free business and that its program was not yet complete. "Whenever the country wants something besides talk," he added, "it turns to the Democratic party."

The president advocated the establishment of a great federal employment bureau, said some means should be found for quickening and clearing up

CARLSON TO GET SUPPORT OF OLD LINE DEMOCRATS

Two of Ammons' Recess Appointments Defeated by Combination

STRIKE REPORT IS MADE

Governor Reviews Administration in Lengthy Message to Legislature

DENVER, Jan. 8.—The biennial message of Governor Ammons, the report of the legislative strike committee and the confirmation, after controversy in the senate, of all the ad interim appointments of Governor Ammons, except two, featured the sessions of the Twentieth Colorado general assembly today.

The receipt of the ad interim appointments in the senate a few minutes before the time set for the joint session to hear the governor's message, took the Republicans by surprise, two of their members having been excused. This left them with 18 members, one less than the Democrats, and two less than the number required to confirm appointments. When this situation became apparent, and it was discovered that a motion to reject probably would be defeated, the Republicans went into caucus.

The caucus named a committee composed of Senators Hasty, Hayden and Peterson. The Democrats, in turn, named a committee composed of Senators Adams, Burris and West. These conferees finally agreed to the appointments of Governor Ammons for the interim, with two exceptions.

Capp and Walsh Fail.

The appointments rejected were those of M. P. Capp of Boulder county as warden of the state reformatory, and M. J. Walsh of Weld county as public trustee. All of the Republicans and all but seven of the Democrats agreed to this program when final action was taken by the senate.

It is generally understood that the "old line" Democrats will act with the Republicans in carrying out the general program of the Carlson administration.

The Capp appointment was opposed by the "old line" wings of both parties, and the senators from northern Colorado opposed the appointment of Walsh. It was announced after adjournment, however, that the appointment of Walsh would probably be confirmed Monday.

An hour and a half was lost in disposing of the appointments, which delayed the reading of the governor's message. Representative Siewers Fincher read the message, after being introduced by Governor Ammons. It was received with marked attention by the members.

Both houses adjourned late today until Monday.

Gov. Ammons' Message.

Much of Governor Ammons' message was taken up with a discussion of the recent coal miners' strike. Referring to industrial disputes in general, the governor said:

"This question overshadows all others in importance. It vitally affects the stability of our very government. Widows, orphans, cripples, bankrupt owners, deserted mines and destruction of property will never accomplish that good feeling between employer and employee necessary for the success of both, and the maintenance of good government. If our country is to thrive or even exist as a nation all classes of people must be made to yield obedience to law."

To secure obedience to law, Governor Ammons urged the establishment of a state police force. "Public safety," he commented, "would be more certainly secured than by the National guard if there were available a force of experienced officers to be called to the assistance of the local authorities at the outset of disturbances." If this plan should be adopted, the governor added, "the National guard need not be called into active service except in cases of great emergency."

Public Prejudiced.

"There seems," the message continued, "to be a subtle influence to (Continued on Page Three)

Bread About to Jump to 6 cts. a Loaf; U. S. Officials May Take Hand

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Department of justice officials expressed interest tonight in reports that the price of a loaf of bread was about to jump from 5 to 6 cents in New York, Chicago, and possibly other large cities. No action is in immediate prospect.

Officials are interested, however, in learning whether there is any conspiracy among bakers over the country to effect a rise in the price of their commodity.

Several years ago the department began an investigation to see if there was a bakers' trust. At that time it was understood that at least a dozen were involved in the operations of a reported combination. No action was ever taken.

GEN. SCOTT HOLDS CONFERENCE WITH VILLA AT EL PASO

To Discuss Border Troubles in Series of Parleys on the Situation

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 8.—Gen. Hugh L. Scott and Gen. Francisco Villa met tonight at a preliminary conference of a series destined to settle the matter of border fighting and its incidental menace to residents of American border towns.

The United States army chief of staff and the Mexican leader met in the United States immigration station at the foot of one of the international bridges spanning the Rio Grande between El Paso and Juarez. No official statement was given out except that the first meeting was "friendly" and that it would be continued tomorrow. General Scott is here as spokesman of the Washington government against the continued attack on Naco, Sonora, by the Villa troops, which already has caused the wounding of killing of more than 50 persons on the American side, or against its repetition at other points on the border.

Issue Reaches Climax.

Eight thousand Villa troops now on their way to the Sonora border, and Villa's avowed intention of using them to crush the remaining Carranza border garrisons has brought to an issue the Washington attitude in the matter. This and, it was understood, other matters which have come up recently will be dealt with by General Scott and George C. Carothers, who is representing the state department at the conference. Mr. Carothers is acting as interpreter.

Generals Scott and Villa, without any military display, drove in automobiles to the meeting place. They chatted for less than an hour. It was understood that none of the points to be discussed were taken up at any length. The meeting was accomplished as secretly as possible.

Generals Scott and Villa already were acquainted, as the two had met at the time when General Scott was commander of the troops at Fort Bliss, Tex. Villa was accompanied by his entire staff, and General Scott only by his chief of staff, Lieut. Col. R. E. L. Michie. Governor Ma. Irena of Sonora, whose troops have been attacking Naco, was represented by Alberto Morales, his legal adviser.

Gen. Scott Refuses Villa Offer.

General Villa arrived late today at Juarez and immediately made arrangements to meet General Scott, who had been waiting here four days for the Mexican chief. "The Mexican border town, swarmed with Mexican soldiers of the 8,000 men being sent into Sonora. The movement to Casas Grandes, however, was delayed by a wreck of one of the troop trains."

Villa himself arrived with his staff in a train drawn by an engine which had been freshly painted on smokestack and wheels with the Mexican national colors, presenting a curious day appearance. The townspeople flocked to meet the northern leader and bands played national airs as he was escorted to his quarters.

Villa had nothing to say about his campaign against the Carranza troops nor political conditions in Mexico City. He immediately invited General Scott to his home in Juarez, but the American chief of staff preferred to meet him first on the American side.

GIANT WAVE SMASHES LITTLE COAST STEAMER

Eureka Wrecked Off Frisco Harbor Entrances; One Life Lost in Disaster

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—A giant wave smashed the side of the little coasting steamer Eureka, tonight, and she piled upon the rocks at the San Francisco harbor entrance, a total loss. Her second officer, James Bolger, was lost off the boat; the remainder of the crew escaped. There were no passengers.

The Eureka, bound for Ventura, Cal., with general freight, passed through the Golden Gate at dusk, in fairly smooth water. The headlands north of the harbor cut off a heavy sea running in from the northwest and whitening the last shoal, known as the "Potato Patch," four miles out. Just where the headlands break into the coast line, the Eureka turned to the southwest, and one of the big waves caught her broadside on. It flooded the engine room and carried away the deck.

The Eureka, caught in the trough, and the Eureka drifted straight to the rocks at the north headland, where she turned turtle and began to break up.

When the propeller lodged, the crew under Capt. A. K. Paulsen, took to the boats. Bolger, amidships, was cut off by high seas from joining his mates, and is believed to have perished.

ENGLAND INSISTS UPON SEARCH OF AMERICAN SHIPS

Reply to Washington Protest Is Inconclusive, Requiring More Correspondence

SAYS ACTION IS IMPERATIVE

Few Concessions Are Made to Neutral Shipping Since Controversy Arose

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Secretary Bryan late today announced the receipt of the note from Great Britain replying to the American communication of December 26 respecting American commerce.

The note, which is of about the same length as the American communication, will be made public on Sunday afternoon by mutual agreement between the state department and the British foreign office.

That the British communication is inconclusive in many respects and will lead to a further exchange of notes was learned from authoritative quarters. Although many concessions to neutral commerce have been made by England through embargoes on reexportation recently, completed with Italy and Holland, some of the points raised in the American note, such as proof at the time of detention of ships, and length of time required for examination, will necessitate further argument between the state department and the British foreign office before a definite understanding is reached.

Search Is Imperative.

Much emphasis is placed by the British government on the necessity for careful search of all cargoes which appear suspicious.

Great Britain appreciates that the United States does not deny the right to a belligerent to search on the high seas, but it is understood to have pointed out that since this rule of international law was set up the size of vessels has changed and examinations at sea cannot be conducted with as much facility as before. The American government pointed out in its note that in conceding the right of search it could not, without protest, permit the British fleet to convey neutral ships to ports merely on suspicion, that extended examinations resulting eventually even in the release of the vessels had an injurious moral effect on American shippers, and that compensation alone for ships detained or seized could not induce exporters to risk their cargoes, especially perishable goods, to the hazards of the situation.

Pays for All Copper.

The British government has explained that it is difficult to search the merchant liner of the present day at sea.

Specifically, Great Britain claims that it has paid for all copper seized and that arrangements have now been made with Italy, Holland and the Scandinavian countries whereby legitimate cargoes of even contraband will not be unduly delayed. Rigorous embargoes on reexportation adopted by the neutrals of Europe recently have made it possible for the British government to promise much improvement to American exporters of these products.

As to foodstuffs and conditional contraband, Great Britain has no intention of repudiating Lord Salisbury's doctrine that such products must be shown to be destined to an enemy force, but will insist on careful examination of every case.

Remedies for many of the difficulties which have arisen are daily being devised. Great Britain has pointed out, and steps taken by the United States to certify manifests of ships showing clearly the contents of cargoes are expected to assist in removing causes for delay.

Naval Stores Contraband.

As to articles which have been placed on the contraband list, such as rosin and turpentine, known as naval stores, the British government has applied the doctrine of President Lincoln that absolute contraband consists of all materials susceptible of use in making munitions of war. The British have discovered that these products are essential to the manufacture of some forms of ammunition and will insist that under international law they must be regarded as absolute contraband.

A partial remedy for the situation, however, is being sought in arrangements for consignment of naval stores from the United States to Holland, Italy and other neutral countries, that American ships can take their rosin and turpentine ballast for cotton cargoes in the trip across the ocean, sell the contraband to neutral countries, where a large trade has been conducted in the past, and send their cotton to the belligerent countries without further molestation.

U. S. SOLDIERS CAPTURE MEXICAN FILIBUSTERERS

LAREDO, Tex., Jan. 8.—United States soldiers yesterday captured 11 alleged Mexican filibusterers near Zapala, a Texas border town south-east of here. The men were said to be ex-federals, according to the report reaching here today.

ITALY AND ROUMANIA ON VERGE OF ENTERING THE WAR ON SIDE OF ALLIES

Latter Already Mobilizing Army of 750,000, While the Former Is Ready to Act

England Now Has Army of 3,000,000 Men in Europe; Russians Continue Movement in Carpathians and Bukovina; Severe Winter Interferes Seriously With Operations

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(Saturday)—The Morning Post's Bucharest correspondent says:

"Roumania is mobilizing 750,000 men, of which number half a million form the field army. Roumania will strike, even should Italy decide not to enter the war."

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The winter's storms and floods, while they have put an end to military operations on a large scale, have not been able to prevent the armies in the east and west from pursuing the offensive at isolated points along the two extended fronts.

In the snow-covered hills of the Caucasus, the hardy Siberians are searching out the routed Turks, who are reported to be surrendering by the thousand, while in Flanders, which is virtually all under water, the allies assert that they have found it possible to make some headway.

Only in Poland, where Field Marshal von Hindenburg's offensive is held up on the banks of the rivers which flow between him and Warsaw, and in Galicia, where the Russians have been compelled to call a halt in their advance, does there seem to be an almost entire lull in the fighting.

Slaves Continue Movement.

The French have advanced a few yards in the vicinity of Rheims, but were compelled to give ground in the Argonne as a result of the Germans having mined some of their first line trenches.

With reports of progress by the French in Alsace, where they are being strenuously opposed by the Germans, the names of some German places are beginning to appear in the official communication which would indicate that the advance, although slow, is being continued.

Viccount Haldane, the British lord high chancellor, in the house of lords today made the interesting announcement that British experts were busy producing a satisfactory equivalent to the German 42-centimeter gun which did such execution against the Belgian fortresses at the beginning of the war and that resulting was so satisfactory that necessity had not arisen for conscription.

England Has Army of 3,000,000.

The chancellor would not disclose the strength of the British army, but military experts estimate that it cannot be less than 2,000,000 men, counting the regulars, reservists, the territorials and Lord Kitchener's new army.

The reported arrest of Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium, continues to attract widespread attention. The Germans explain that he has not been arrested but that he was requested to refrain from further the publication of Belgium. The Dutch newspaper, which first published the report of the cardinal's arrest, insists, however, on the correctness of its correspondent's statement and says that even now Cardinal Mercier is not permitted to leave Malines.

A repulse of a counter-attack and the taking of 400 prisoners and several machine guns is credited to the Austrians in Vienna's official announcement.

Petrol and saws that the Turks in Transcaucasia have taken a vigorous offensive, apparently in an endeavor to relieve the predicament of the Tenth army, which was defeated several days ago at Sarikamish.

Roumania Mobilizing.

A newspaper dispatch reports that Roumania is mobilizing 750,000 men and that she will enter the war even should Italy decide not to do so.

Austria is declared in a dispatch from Innsbruck to have started to fortify her line facing the Italian frontier, and an Italian newspaper asserts that Austria has sent a note to Italy protesting against Italy's occupation of Avlona, Albania.

A Rome newspaper prints an interview with the Persian minister to Italy in which the minister is reported as saying that Persian territory was being invaded by Kurds and Turks and that Persia had sent an ultimatum to Constantinople.

Finder of Diamond Brooch to Be Tried on Larceny Charge

Through the police Mrs. William Howbert has recovered a $1,000 diamond brooch, an heirloom lost at the Anders on New Years eve. L. A. Burry a Swiss, has been arrested charged with larceny as before, and in Justice Dunnington's court yesterday afternoon was bound over to the district court under $1,000 bonds.

Mrs. Howbert lost the brooch in the bathroom and immediately notified the hotel management, and offered a reward to the finder. Burry was employed as an extra "bus" boy at the hotel New Years eve and found the pin the next morning. Instead of reporting the find he kept the article. The police finally traced it.

Living Pictures Net $700 for Belgians

The gross receipts of society's production of living pictures at the Opera house last Wednesday evening totaled more than $700, according to a statement issued yesterday. Since the participants bore the expenses of the costumes and the other necessities were for the most part contributed by the net proceeds, which will go to the Belgian relief fund, will equal almost $700.

An especially large expense was eliminated through the generosity of Charles L. and Thayer Tutt, who contributed the Opera house and staff and the orchestra. All current used during the production and rehearsal, a large item, was donated by the Colorado Springs Light, Heat and Power company. Various individuals spent much time in working out the details of the production and another important phase of the work was the publicity done by A. R. Gardner.

NEW YEARS EVE, 1915, MAY BE "DAMP" NIGHT

Colorado will not be dry until January 2, 1916, instead of January 1, according to the opinion of Mayor C. L. McKesson and City Attorney J. L. Bennett. The amendment reads "from and after January 1" which, according to the city's legal lights, means it will not take effect until January 2. Just how the matter will be worked out here has not been determined. The council has decided to grant licenses to expire December 31.

HEALTH OFFICER GILFITT ANSWERS THOSE WHO WOULD REMOVE MUZZLES FROM DOGS

Ordinance Necessary to Protect Public, He Says, and Cites Instances of Rabies

Numerous protests mostly anonymous, are being received by the health department relative to the muzzling of dogs. As a general rule, anonymous letters are disregarded by the officials, but Health Officer O. R. Gillett, taking into consideration the widespread interest in the dog ordinance, has written a general answer to all who have protested forcibly against the muzzling of dogs. This he believes will answer also those who, it is said, are preparing a petition asking the council to repeal the ordinance.

"First, let me say that our action is not and should not be influenced by the fact that the average citizen is, like our own and the newspaper correspondents a lover of dogs," Health Officer Gillett says. "We do not refrain from quarantining or applying other stringent regulations to humans for the protection of the public simply because we are lovers of people. Why, then should we with dogs?"

Quotes Census Figures.

As to the existence of rabies in the United States the mortality statistics of the bureau of the census for 1912, thirteenth annual report states that the number of deaths from rabies in the registration area of the United States was as follows:

1909	60 cases
1910	64 cases
1911	88 cases
1912	74 cases

The registration area in 1909 comprised 561 per cent of the population of the country and from that time increased until in 1912, it became 612 per cent. Are we to consider, as suggested by A. Lox Friend, that these 274 cases were mistaken diagnoses?

CITY SURPLUS MAY BE INVESTED IN CITY BONDS

Extra Money in Cemetery Department to Start Fund for Purchase of Additional Ground

Commissioner J. J. Eulank of the department of finance, at yesterday's meeting of the city council, gave his permission, subject to the approval of the city attorney for the city to invest a surplus of $3,078.88 remaining in the cemetery fund in city bonds. The surplus will be used as the beginning of a fund for the purchase of new land which will be needed by the cemetery within a few years.

The city clerk was instructed by the council to let a contract to Charles J. Wood to construct voting booths for the 20 city precincts at a cost of $475. Herebefore the city has been renting the county booths, the charge being $200 for each election.

The new junk ordinance, fixing a flat license of $25 a year for both dealers and collectors was passed on first reading. The ordinance provides that each applicant must have the consent of the owners of all adjoining property before he can store junk on his premises, and also that he must keep all junk 72 hours before selling it. Under the present ordinance dealers pay $100 a year and collectors $10.

The council received the application of the South End pharmacy, 431 South Tejon street for a renewal of its liquor license. The hearing was set for January 20.

Judge Little Holds Assessments for Paving Are Legal

Judge Little, sitting in the district court yesterday, overruled the demurrer of the county in the suit of the City of Colorado Springs versus the County of El Paso, and held that the paving ordinance of the city is valid. About $10,000 is concerned in the suit.

The county protested that the city had not the right to assess the county for its share of the cost of paving and installing storm sewers on streets on which the court house property abuts.

Judge Little held just the reverse—that is the assessment is legal.

The county is given 30 days in which to answer.

The case was argued before Judge Little some time ago and the court took it under advisement.

J. R. Gwillim, Pioneer, Takes His Own Life

J. R. Gwillim, 65 years old and a pioneer of El Paso county, committed suicide at his ranch near Canon City Thursday afternoon. He was a brother of Assessor R. J. Gwillim. Despondency over ill health was the cause, Gwillim having been a sufferer with rheumatism for several years. He had been living with his son, Thomas M. Gwillim of Canon City, who, with two other sons, Richard T. of Oakbuck and David R. of Victor, and two brothers R. J. of this city and Thomas Gwillim of Falcon, survive him.

Mr. Gwillim was born near Neath, Wales and came to the United States in 1870, settling in Grand Tower, Ill. He came to El Paso county with his wife in 1871 and took up land at a place known later as Gwillimville, near Monument. There he located the first two cheese factories in the state. In 1876 he moved to Denver. In 1880, where his wife died. He went to London, England in 1897 returning to Colorado in 1898 making his home with his son at Victor. Later he moved his ranch near Canon City.

hoses, and that they really died of something else or are we to respect the opinion of the medical men who signed the death certificates? We appeal to the medical profession as the highest authority of the causes of death in all other maladies. Are we to reject their opinion in this one disease?

Died of Hydrophobia.

July 26, 1909, Blige Downing, aged 2 years, 10 months, son of J. M. Downing living at 35 East Moreno avenue, Colorado Springs, died of hydrophobia according to death certificate number 204 in the 1909 death records, now filed in the city clerk's office. The child was bitten about May 26 and died four days after the appearance of the symptoms. The certificate was signed by Dr. D. H. Rice of this city.

Is it necessary that we subject our children to such tragedies as this in order to demonstrate that we are loyal to "man's best friend" the dog; and to convince a few dissatisfied citizens that it is better to take steps to prevent such calamities than to wait until the appearance of the disease brings it forcibly to our minds?

This attitude is not peculiar regarding rabies, or hydrophobia. There are people who invariably object to the enforcement of any of our quarantine regulations until someone dies, and then complain with equal ardor about the negligence of the health department.

Granted then that there is such a disease as hydrophobia what evidence have we that it is present in Colorado Springs?

The most conclusive that can be obtained.

First. The clinical evidence as interpreted by our local veterinary surgeons before the death of the animals. There was surely something the matter with these dogs, else they would not have died. The Dog Friend suggests that they might have had worms or distemper. Do dogs die in three days with paralysis of the throat, lower jaw and hind legs, from worms or distemper?

Last Case December 28.

Second. The discovery under the microscope, of Negri bodies in the brains of 18 dogs 15 of which died under observation and five of which were killed at the request of their owners when it was evident that they could not live. This microscopic work was done in the laboratory of the health department. The presence of Negri bodies is regarded by experts as sufficient evidence of the presence of hydrophobia. We examined the brains of 28 suspicious cases and found 18 to be positive. The last case died December 28, 1914.

Third. Confirmation of our findings by Dr. J. E. Newcome, bacteriologist and pathologist of the State Agricultural college, Fort Collins, Colorado.

Fourth. The report of the chief of the division of pathology of the bureau of animal industry, department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., to whom the brain of the first rabid dog was sent for examination, and whose report can be seen at the office of the department of public health.

If then we are aware of the existence of hydrophobia among our dogs, shall we merely inform the people of the fact and let those who wish take steps to avoid infection, or shall we endeavor to stamp out the disease. To do the latter recognized authorities are agreed that the dogs must be either quarantined or properly muzzled. We have from the first urged that this be done. The enforcement of ordinances relating to dogs is by the charter placed in the department of public safety, and to them belongs the credit for what has been done.

Discussions Are Invited

"Now in the light of these facts, do you honestly feel that the proper position of the health department and the council is on the side of safety to our citizens even though it be at the cost of some comfort to the 1126 dogs on which licenses were paid in 1914?" If you still cling to your opinion that the ordinance should be repealed, I am authorized by the mayor to invite you to the next council meeting to discuss the matter in a friendly way. We do not wish to be arbitrary, but are acting in accordance with what we believe to be for the best interests of the people.

NEW WORKING SYSTEM IS BIG AID IN GOLD CAMP

Treatment of Lessees Has Had Much to Do in Reviving Enthusiasm, Says B. C. Mitchell

That the wise treatment of lessees has had as much to do with the revival of enthusiasm in the Cripple Creek gold camp as has the drainage tunnel was the assertion of B. Clark Mitchell, superintendent of the Isabella property, who attended a meeting of the board of directors here yesterday. At the meeting of the board it was decided to extend work on company account and develop the vein which Lessee Campbell opened on the thirteenth level and which has proved to be so valuable.

Speaking of the lessee system, Mitchell said: "The split-check system of leasing, first adopted by the Portland, is working here and as a result hundreds of good miners are working hard and doing a lot to develop many properties. We have been able to keep good miners on our leases with good advantage to the mine and to the lessees."

According to Rufus Steele, a magazine writer who returned here yesterday after a week's visit in the district, every miner is enthusiastic over the revival there and they are all praising their new ore values.

On the local mining exchange yesterday Isabella continued to be the feature and 14,000 shares of stock changed hands at 17 cents, the highest quotation in several months. The Isabella company has had 37 sets of lessees working for some time opening good ore in widely separated parts of the property. The ore is being shipped to the Golden Cycle mill here. Mitchell brought with him a plug of gold weighing 1 1/2 ounces obtained from two pounds of ore in a quick assay. This came from the five-inch core, where the rich veins lie.

ALASKA GOLD MINES CO. TO ISSUE DEBENTURES

Directors to Authorize $15,000,000 10-Year Bonds at Meeting January 21; Reduction Plant Opened

The directors of the Alaska Gold Mines company, controlled by C. M. MacNeill and associates of Colorado Springs and New York, will hold a special meeting January 21, when the issue of $15,000,000 with 10-year 6 per cent debentures will be authorized. These will be convertible into stock on a basis of $5 a share and stockholders of record January 25 may subscribe to the bonds on a pro rata basis, by which the holder of 50 shares of stock can purchase bonds at par to the extent of $100 for 20 shares of stock held. Stockholders with less than 50 shares will not be given this opportunity.

Many Colorado Springs people have stock in the concern and it has been showing up well on the exchange yesterday selling at $27.50. The first unit of the reduction plant was opened January 2. The new bond issue is to be used for funds for the construction of a second unit. It is understood.

HOW TO CURE A LA GRIPPE

"Coughs that hang on" demand treatment. Stop and think! Reason and common sense tell you that it is folly to "grin and bear it." These raging la grippe coughs that wrench the body and cause soreness and pains in the lungs yield more quickly to Foley's Honey and Tar than to any other treatment. Forty years' record of success proves this. For coughs, colds, croup and other distressing ailments of throat, chest, lungs, larynx and bronchial tubes, you can find nothing that will compare with this reliable remedy. Residents of the northern end of Teller county will file a protest against the action with the public utilities commission. Jurors and witnesses summoned will find it necessary to drive to town and the mail service will be limited to one train a day when the service is changed.

SERIES OF SERMONS AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

A series of sermons that is creating favorable comment is being preached by Dr. Samuel Garvin at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday evenings. Two numbers of the course have already been given under the title "God" and "The Incarnation." The third of the series will be given tomorrow evening under the caption, "The Person and Work of the Holy Spirit." Mr. Garvin takes the conservative position in theology and is giving the best thought in outline on these themes, from this standpoint.

MANY GERMANS KEEP BEES

From East and West. Speaking of bees? There were 2,618,841 hives of them in Germany in 1912. Probably there are not now for there is a government bond to promote bee culture, and an association of beekeepers in Saxonia alone which is estimated in one body to 7,300 members. Honey is the cheapest of the sweets to obtain, and the Germans are thrifty.

JOHNSON AND WILLARD WILL FIGHT 45 RDS.

Bout Will Be Staged
at Juarez Race
Track March 6
Smoke Gets $30,000, Win, Lose or Draw; Willard to Get $15,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Jack Johnson and Jess Willard will meet in a 45-round-bout-for-the-heavyweight-championship of the world at Juarez, Mexico, on Saturday, March 6. Final arrangements to this effect were made here today, after other bids were received from Havana, Cuba and Tijuana, Mexico.

Johnson has been guaranteed $30,000, win, loss or draw, while Willard has been assured a minimum of $15,000, and may receive a few large sums in sharing in the affair with the chief promoter.

Other offers to stage the bout came from a syndicate of this city that was desirous of taking the bout to Havana, Cuba and a California promoter, who wished to have it held near Tijuana, Mexico.

The bout will take place in the Juarez race track and the management of the track promised suspension of racing for a few days if necessary to facilitate the erection of stands there for the accommodation of spectators.

Johnson signed the articles a few weeks ago in Europe he was handed $1,000 for expenses, and today $1,000 more was added to him at Buenos Aires, from which point he will sail tomorrow morning on his way to Juarez.

Jess Willard, who has been in this city for a few days, will leave tomorrow for a brief stay at Excelsior Springs, Mo., and then will proceed to El Paso, where he will finish his training for the contest. He will reach the El Paso quarters about January 25, in all probability. And expects to weigh about 220 pounds when he enters the ring.

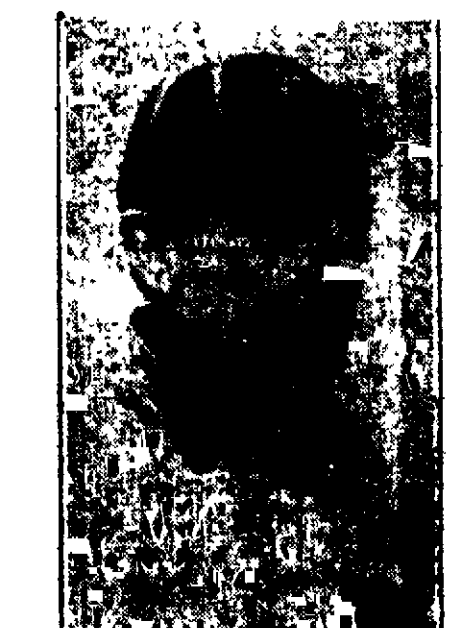

Johnson and his handlers will establish training quarters at Juarez as soon as he arrives there. The $200,000 which was given to Johnson for traveling and training expenses will not be deducted from his guarantee of $30,000.

Boys Club Wins From Mixed College Quintet

Opening their regular season, the first team of the Boys club last night administered a 2-10-8 defeat on a Colorado college picked team. Twenty-five minutes were played, and the winning was fast and furious, from the very start. The boys of the college and Hiller of the Boys club officiated.

The lineup was as follows:
Boys club: Colorado College, Parker, Christie, Blower, Liljestrom, Parker, Wood, Center, M. Davis, Fuller, Murdoch, Shepard, Minnick, Guards.

"WILD BILL" DONOVAN YANKEES' MANAGER

Wild Bill Donovan, one of the greatest of baseball pitchers, has been selected as the manager of the New York American league club, just purchased by Jacob Ruppert and T. L. Huston. He will take the place left vacant by Frank Chance who gave up the job of trying to make a pennant contender of the club.

Donovan went to the Providence club of the International league last season and took it from the bottom to the top. When the Baltimore International league club was broken up by the sale of star play, it left the way open for another to win the pennant. Donovan made the race and won at last. He showed qualities which it is believed by his backers prove he is a very able manager. In fact, he has been given credit for much of the success of Hugh Jennings manager of the Detroit club of the American league. He is said to have been the chief adviser of Jennings in the days when the club was regularly winning the American league pennant.

TERRORS SQUEEZE OUT 25-24 VICTORY FROM EAST DENVER

Better Foul Throwing and Team Play Overshadow
Inexperience

Team play and good foul throwing by Captain Thompson gave the Terrors their first victory of the interscholastic season last night at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, when they defeated East Denver high school by the score of 25 to 24. The game saw-sawed throughout and never was there a margin of more than three points either way. The score at the end of the first half being 17 to 13. The Terrors were outwitted by the man by the visitors, who played tough basketball, due largely to the fact that the local floor was not as large as they have been using. During the latter part of the game the Terrors became so rough that their coach Keister, who refereed the game, awarded the Terrors a penalty of one point.

With only one experienced player on the team the Terrors showed up well, due to a great extent perhaps to the careful coaching of Coach Erps, who has the local youngsters in charge. One of the stars of the game was Simpson, center who though new to the game played in excellent form. Captain Thompson threw eight fouls out of 11 chances. Denver threw only four fouls.

The lineup and field goals:
Terrors: East Denver, Barnes, Jordan, 3; Schipper, Johnson, 1; Simpson, 2; Anderson (Capt.), 2; F. Thompson, 1; Gilligan, 1; T. Thompson (Capt.), 1; Anderson, Guards.

Officials: Keister, referee; Erps, umpire; Shafford, scorer and timekeeper. The Terrors play Wheatridge high school on January 22.

ENGLAND'S FONDNESS FOR SPORTS IS NOT AFFECTED BY WAR

Football and Cricket Hit, but Indoor Sports Such as Boxing Thrive

By FRANK G. MENKE

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The war has not affected England's fondness for sports, but has brought about an appreciable decrease in the staging of athletic contests in London.

Papers from the English capital which come here devote just as much space to sporting news as they did before the war, and the papers contain just about as many accounts of sporting contests as they did before the war began.

England may be feeling the pinch of poverty here and there, but whenever a good prize fight is staged the English fight lovers manage to exhumate sufficient funds to give them choice seats in the amphitheater.

Johnny Sumners, welterweight champion of England, and Johnny Basham met at the National Sporting club some night ago. Basham beat Sumners and won the Lord Londale belt. The National Sporting club never housed a bigger crowd than it did that night, despite the fact that fancy admission prices were charged because the bout was one of a stellar nature in the minds of the English fight fans.

One other thing was noticed in the perusal of the English papers was that little mention is made of Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of the world, and a British subject. Other papers, even the most mediocre get mention here and there, but Welsh is ignored. Possibly the reason for this is that Welsh is in America and little news about him gets back to English papers.

It seems probable, however, that Welsh is purposely ignored by the English papers because in some quarters, it is felt that Welsh ran away from what seemed to be his duty—enlisting in the army and making himself a target for the German shells.

Over in England when war broke out they figured that Freddie should have been among the first to enlist. Freddie was a fighter, wasn't he? And isn't a fighter's place where the fights are taking place? My word, yes. You all know what Freddie did, he gave the war the once over and took one of the first steamers for the United States, where the only missiles he took a chance on facing was blisses from the gallery gods.

Since football was abolished in England, most of the players have answered the popular demand and have enlisted for war duty. The Sportman's Battalion, recently recruited, is composed very largely of crack football and polo players in the British Isles. Much is expected from this squad of soldiers which now is being put through drills, because of the fact that all the men are athletes and able to endure much physical strain.

Some star cricket players also are numbered among the recruits in the Sportman's Battalion. A son of Charles Mitchell, the veteran English pugilist, has enlisted, and many of the buyers who have big reputations in England.

How Mike Gibbons, Who Is to Box Jimmy Clabby, Knocks Them Out

The greatest and cleverest boxing match in years will be that between the great middleweight Mike Gibbons of Milwaukee, in the latter city, January 21. Of course, the match will run only 10 rounds, and that is hardly long enough to settle a championship. However, since 10 rounds is the limit in all the profitable fighting centers in the United States, those who love the game will have to be satisfied with it. It might be unfair to say the winner of this fight will be the champion middleweight of the United States. Jeff Smith, the New Jersey middleweight, claims to have beaten Clabby in Australia, and Clabby beat Gibbons several years ago. That ought to give Smith a look in before they talk of settling the championship. But Gibbons and Clabby are remarkably clever and the equal of the famous Tommy Ryan, Kid McCoy, and Mysterious Billy Smith.

NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF MEET TO BE AT DETROIT

Frank L. Woodward of Denver Country Club Selected President; Discussing Status of Amateur.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The National Amateur Golf championship for 1915 will be contested on the links of the Country club of Detroit; the women's national championship at the Owentata club, Lake Forest, Ill., and the national open championship at the Ballynahally Country club, Short Hills, N. J.

The election of officers at the annual meeting of the United States Golf association tonight resulted in making Frank L. Woodward of the Denver Country club, now president of the Western Golf association the new president of the national body.

Discussion of the proposition to amend the rule defining an amateur golfer was taken up, with the prospect that the debate would continue to a late hour.

At the close of the discussion it was found to be the sense of the meeting that in the main the sections in the rules relating to the definition of an amateur should remain as they now stand, but that the executive committee be permitted to make interpretations under the rules in any way that they see fit in order to preserve the true amateur spirit.

The general agreement was reached that the golfing authorities abroad should be consulted so there might be arranged a substantial if not an absolute uniformity in the definition of amateur by the golfing bodies on the two sides of the ocean.

McGoorty Winner Over Murray in Ten Fast Rounds

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 8.—Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, Wis., tonight earned a decision over Billy Murray of San Francisco in 10 rounds. The men are welterweights. He sent Murray down for the count of eight in the fourth round. McGoorty had six, Murray five, and two were even.

McGoorty took the lead in the first round, driving home several telling lefts and rights to Murray's face and stomach. The second round was a draw.

In the third session Murray drove a number of hard blows to McGoorty's face and kidneys. The round was Murray's by a big lead.

The fourth opened slow, but McGoorty soon stepped inside Murray's guard and drove two hard lefts to the face and stomach, putting Murray to the canvas for the count of nine. McGoorty failed to follow up his advantage and missed a chance to knock Murray down for the count.

The remainder of the fight was slow, Murray taking the eighth by a shade and McGoorty having a big lead in the ninth. The fight was McGoorty's by a substantial margin.

C.C. FACULTY BRANDS BASKETBALL O.K. AND TEAM STARTS PRACTICE TODAY FOR CONFERENCE GAMES

Students Win Out on Protest Against Former Reverse Ruling; Coach Rothgeb to Pick His Squad in a Few Days; Means Lots of Hard Work for Players in Next Few Weeks

STUDENTS at Colorado college had their prayers granted by the faculty, and last night that august group of educators decided that basketball should be a major sport and that the Tigers should have a team and enter the conference schedule. Although the decision was somewhat expected, the students gave vent to their enthusiasm when it was announced at Cossett dining hall. If the enthusiasm over the game keeps up as well as that over the announcement the team should have plenty of backing and plenty of material.

Coach Rothgeb announced last night that he would start his hard training this afternoon, and from now on every afternoon the gymnasium will be the scene of some fast and furious play. So far the men have not shown up for practice as the coach desires, owing largely to the uncertainty of the game. However, class games have been played and considerable good material has been unearthed in this manner. There are about 16 men now out for the first team who look like good timber for the rough and strenuous winter pastime.

So far the material for the team that has shown the greatest strength consists of Mack Davis, Jack Taylor and Turner of the freshmen, Holman, Sheffer, Perry and Paul Sheppard and Peterson of the freshmen, Liljestrom, Gleason, Minnick, Schweitzer, Cover, C. Taylor and Shadowen from the sophomores. The squad for the first team will be cut to 10 in a few days and the first five will consist of about eight men, three substitutes generally being carried. There will be no manager for the team.

Cossett gymnasium and galleries will seat about 500 people. The admission charges for the games have not been determined. The mid-semester examinations start next Friday at the college and for this reason, the enthusiasm is liable to die down for a few days.

The schedule for the Tigers will be as follows:
January 22—University of Colorado at Colorado Springs
February 6—Miners at Colorado Springs
February 14—Aggies at Fort Collins
February 19—Aggies at Colorado Springs
February 22—Denver at Colorado Springs
February 25-27—at Boulder
March 6—Denver at Denver
March 12—Miners at Golden.

On whose shoulders falls the task of developing a basketball five to represent the Tigers for the first time. He must do this in three weeks, too. Rothgeb and Coach Hughes of Fort Collins are the only coaches in the west that handle all four major branches of college athletics—football, basketball, basketball and track.

Eight Games on Schedule.
The schedule calls for eight games four here and four away. The season

SENATOR LODGE ON MEXICO

IT is safe to say that if the European war had not diverted attention from affairs at home the Mexican problem would long since have become the subject of a veritable upheaval in Congress. But the country is absorbed in the conflict abroad and Congress has been quite busy for several months with the problems growing out of it, so little is said or done in regard to the inglorious fizzle of the Administration's policy in Mexico.

A few days ago Senator Lodge of Massachusetts took occasion to criticize the Administration severely. He reviewed the series of events from the beginning of the Madero revolution down to the present condition, which he declared to be a state of anarchy, the blame for which rests chiefly on the blundering diplomacy of Wilson and Bryan. He inferred that the President's failure to mention Mexico in his recent message to Congress justifies the assumption that he now has no policy to advocate, although revolt and tumult reign across the border.

This summing up of the case will meet with the approval of all except ardent partisans of the Administration. Conditions in Mexico now are as chaotic and seemingly as hopeless as ever. Villa appears to be in the ascendency, which is anything but hopeful, for his past career is sufficient assurance of his unfitness to conduct a stable government, or, rather, a government bent on law and justice.

Nor is there another leader in sight who promises anything better. Huerta's flight was followed by the advent of a horde of ambitious politicians, each anxious to make himself president. The numerous conferences held have not reconciled these leaders nor produced a practicable plan for the establishment of stable government.

Meanwhile, Mr. Wilson has virtually abandoned the problem, which in effect is a confession of the failure of his policy. He still watchfully waits, but he has achieved nothing. And yet there are people who point to this diplomatic fiasco as an evidence of the President's wonderful tact and ability to keep us out of foreign difficulties.

THE ARMY

OUR entire available fighting force could be marched into the Yale Bowl and one-third of the seats would remain empty.

If we are to maintain our ideals, that is, to avoid militarism and get efficient from a military standpoint, we must have a thoroughly efficient regular army sufficient for the police work of the day. We should have behind that a well-organized reserve—Major General Leonard Wood, U. S. A.

This is about as far as any advocate of army increase has gone in advocacy of preparedness. Of course there are a few cranks who would like to see the United States embark on a program of militarism modeled on the German plan, but they have no influence and no following. The press of the nation is almost a unit in favor of a moderate increase in the strength of both army and navy, and, more especially, their maintenance in the highest state of efficiency as to arms, equipment and training. And this is the view of the public men who are leading the movement, men like Representative Gardner, Senator Lodge, Colonel Roosevelt, and the Army and Navy officers.

This being the case, how absurd it is to charge them with militarism! Their ideas have little more in common with those of avowed militarists than with those of the extreme peace propagandists who advocate complete disarmament. And they have the advantage of being thoroughly practical.

Germany, in its long era of peace preceding this war, spent only a few millions more each year for the maintenance of its huge army than the United States spends to keep up a force so small that comparisons are impossible. The reason is found in the greater degree of efficiency with which the German military system is managed. There is no doubt that the application of like methods would enable our government to increase both branches of the service both in numbers and efficiency without substantially increasing the cost of maintenance.

ENFORCING PROHIBITION

IT is a little surprising to find the State W. C. T. U. taking a position against the enactment of laws providing severe penalties for the violation of the prohibition amendment. This is also the position, it seems, of Superintendent Finch of the Anti-Saloon League. They of course favor a rigid enforcement of the law, but object to the rigorous penalties recommended by the district attorneys of the state, on the ground that it might bring prohibition into disrepute.

The measures proposed by the district attorneys are undoubtedly stringent, but one cannot study the history of attempts to enforce prohibitory law in other states without reaching the conclusion that no other course is likely to prove effective. One thing is certain—the law is going to be violated if men who can profit by doing so can find a way to violate it. As a rule they are not beginners in the business, but old offenders who will stop at nothing to attain their ends. They will be backed with plenty of money and the best legal talent, and even at this time they make no secret of their intention to evade the law, attempt to bring it into disrepute, attempt to secure its recall or beat it in any other way possible.

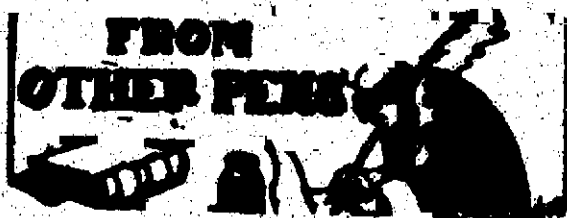

To temporize with them would be sheer folly, ending eventually in their victory. The better way, indeed, the only effective way, is to enact such rigorous measures to enforce the amendment as will make the enemies of prohibition afraid to violate them.

THE CANAL PAYS ITS WAY

GOVERNOR GOETHALS of the Canal Zone, who came home to spend Christmas, announces that the Canal is more than paying operating expenses despite the reduction in traffic incident to the war. Three or four ships pass through the waterway daily, though at first it looked as if there would only be one. Moreover, there is a remarkable improvement in operating efficiency. It was expected that a half hour would be consumed in putting a ship through a single lock, but they put a vessel through three locks in fifty-five minutes.

There is something about Colonel Goethals that makes the reader expect to hear reports of efficiency whenever he talks or is talked about. He took charge of the building operations in Panama after two of the greatest engineers in the country had failed, and carried them through to success in a shorter time than was expected despite difficulties not reckoned with in the original plans. He has done everything better, more thoroughly and in quicker time than anybody had a right to expect, and it is not surprising that in operation, as in construction, he is establishing new records.

The Canal is not likely to be a money-maker, indeed, it was not planned to be one. With a construction and maintenance cost two or three times as great as that of the Suez waterway, its possible tonnage is not likely to be so great even in years to come. If it pays operating expenses and bond interest it will fully meet expectations, but its worth in developing the commerce of the western hemisphere and in shortening the route between our Atlantic coast and the Orient it will fully justify it in a commercial sense, to say nothing of its strategic advantages in war.

FROM OTHER PENS

WHY OUR NEUTRALITY MEANS

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, Senator John D. Works of California, Representative Barthold of Missouri, and some others have introduced resolutions in Congress intended to forbid the export of munitions of war to belligerent nations. "Belligerent nations" means England and her allies, for, as things stand now, England's mastery of the sea prevents shipments to Germany.

The gentlemen promoting these resolutions can word them as artfully as they choose. The intent of them is to give an advantage to Germany. They are not, as their sponsors protest, efforts in the interests of neutrality. They are the exact opposite, namely, German. Were Germany not now blockaded, she, too, would be receiving shipments from America just as the allies are. Neutrality consists in playing no favorites. To stop shipments to the allies would be favoritism.

Now, we do not propose to violate our neutrality to please Germany. We don't know what Senator Hitchcock's motive may be. Possibly he reasons that introducing a resolution doesn't mean very much, and that his action is only proper deference to the wishes of a portion of his constituents. Senator Works is a man who occasionally airs some very bizarre ideas, his part of the movement is probably an expression of a harmless but crazy patriotism. Representative Barthold, doubtless, thinks he is doing the wishes of his constituents. For the American feeling of affection for Germany is as strong as the American feeling of disapproval for what the German nation is now doing. But if Ambassador Bernstorff and the others who are manipulating a pro-German propaganda in this country want to start something, they will succeed with comparative little trouble. It will be easy to push the pro-German meddling of these propagandists, paid and unpaid, to a point where the American public opinion would flame into action such as would make the Germans very sorry indeed.

THE PROTEST TO ENGLAND

From the Chicago Tribune.

The tension which would attend a protest such as our government at least has been moved to address England on the subject of contraband, seizures and retentions of cargo is happily absent in this case. Our relations with England are not explosive and at this time especially public opinion in both countries is mutually well disposed.

There is no reason, then, to fear serious consequences from the interchange. It should bring about a better understanding and better conditions for the American export trade.

International law at this stage is to a considerable extent a matter of policy and power, rather than of well defined and accepted principle, while often, as in this case, its moral bearings are remote or nonexistent. England's necessities and interests have had most to do with shaping the laws of the sea and her theories of contraband are founded on the fact that Britannia rules the waves.

In the present war, which she declares is to be fought to a finish, her object is completely to starve her enemies, their industries, and their armies. On the other hand, it is our interest to sell to both sides whatever they wish and can pay for. Between these often conflicting interests it should be possible to make a fair compromise. Up to this time we have been rightly beaten. We may now as rightly be firm, though reasonable. England will be expected to show more consideration for our interests and our susceptibilities than her government has shown thus far. Her diplomacy has made some rather serious mistakes. It would seem, in the last half year, but it will hardly commit the error of reversing American public opinion by a policy toward our export trade which we should have a right to resent and would resent.

THE PRUSSIAN VIEW

From Life.

It is a bad job to beat the Germans, and just now a very cold, damp job, but equally cold and damp for them, and as necessary as ever. An advantage they have in it is that their managers take an exceedingly practical view of ordinary soldiers, regarding them as cannonfodder, easily replaced and of no vital value as long as replaceable.

The French and English view of ordinary soldiers has not reached this degree of detachment. A man is a man in England and France, but in Germany he seems rather to be a more or less intelligent animal that belongs to the state, and can be rather easily bred and trained for the uses of the state and the glorious family of Hohenzollern. A century and a half ago this was a prevalent mental attitude of continental European managers about common men, but in the countries that have some democratic it has changed.

Prussia has held on to it resolutely, and holds on to it, and whether it is to persist or to perish is one of the things that this huge war is about. If William is beaten it will not effectively for the modification of this ancient idea. If he wins, the idea will gain some prestige.

A PHASE OF THE UNDERWOOD TARIFF

From the Argonaut.

This concrete illustration of how the Underwood tariff works out in one of its phases comes from Portland, Ore.: There is, the Oregonian tells us, in the vicinity of Portland a hardwood lumber mill which is about to move away. Until recently it imported logs from Japan and sawed them into veneers for sale in this country. Since we reduced the duty on hardwood the Japanese have built mills in their own country. They have taken to exporting the sawed lumber to this country. The Oregon mill is closed and the owners announce their intention to remove the plant to Japan. They will maintain only a distributing yard at Portland. The mill would be dismantled, employs about 100 men at an average of $3 per day. The Japanese mill will employ men at 30 to 40 cents per day.

The Oregon millmen operating in Japan will have the advantage of this cheap labor, but what is to become of the 100 Americans who are to be displaced? And what reason have we to expect that hardwood lumber and its products will be any cheaper because it is sawed by Japanese instead of $3 Americans? The millmen are not moving to Japan in order to save money to the consumers. They are moving in order to save money for themselves and to increase their profits. The owners of the mill in question, the Oregonian tells us, are enthusiastic Democrats. Why should they not be?

THE INSIDIOUS INFLUENCE OF "PORK"

From the World's Work.

There are some members of Congress who refuse to have anything to do with river and harbor "pork" but who are a little weak on pensions. There are others who are strict with their constituents about pensions but who will fight long and hard to keep a useless army post alive in their district. There are very few members of Congress who do not deal in "pork" in one way or another, in other words who do not get money of the national treasury for expenditure in their own districts contrary to the public good. With every member of Congress after some piece of pork or other, it is only natural that they should combine and help one another so that every one shall be certain to get something. It is in this way that a large portion of the public money is divided and frittered away.

IN AND OUT OF MEXICO

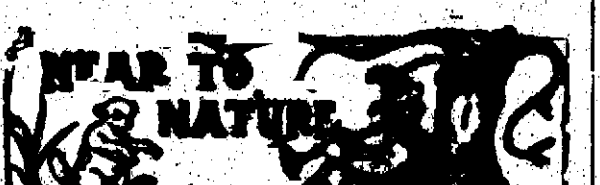

From Leslie's.

And the question arises, why should we have embroiled ourselves with Mexico, even to the verge of war? Did we count the cost? What good has been done? Is Mexico better off? Are we better off? We have jeopardized the trade of a neighboring republic at the very moment when it would have come to us because the Germans who controlled it largely have withdrawn. President Wilson did not know the Mexican. He found Mexico with a president who had been recognized by all the nations of the world. He left it with two or three claiming the presidency and none of them recognized by our government or by any other.

USUAL PASSWORD

Washington announces that economy is to be the watchword. Still "pork" may be the "pass" word, as usual.

O HARRY, HAND US THE SOAP!

H. L. T. in the Chicago Tribune.

In Northfield, Minn.: "Talking among employees except on business strictly prohibited. Singing and whistling permitted at all times." AMERICAN RAILROADS THE BALTIMORE & OHIO

The Baltimore & Ohio is the patriarch of all railroads. It was the first railroad built for the hauling of passengers and general freight and will celebrate its 100th birthday in 1930.

At that time the Baltimore & Ohio was only 14 miles long, built of wooden rails with iron straps on them and operated by mule power. Strings of cars were hauled and passengers could travel on it for a trifle less than 2 cents a mile. Since then the railroad business has been so perfected by the use of economy, science and finance that it is no longer profitable to haul passengers for less than two and one-half a mile. In some ways the world seems to advance diligently backward.

The Baltimore & Ohio was built by enterprising citizens of Baltimore to compete with the canal trust and to connect the Atlantic ocean with the Ohio river. The system has grown until it now has 4,500 miles of line and earns almost $100,000,000 a year. It cost over $500,000,000 to build, and pays dividends regularly.

The Baltimore & Ohio begins at Philadelphia, passes under Baltimore and through Washington, which city it reached in 1838—repeatedly. Thence it winds westward along the Potomac river, luxuriantly equipped with double-tracked scenery, through Harper's Ferry and into the Allegheny mountains. In the old days the trip was a famous adventure and was often taken by those who could not afford to cross the ocean and get seasick. But in modern times this railroad has spent hundreds of millions, removing curves and straightening large mountains in the thorax with tunnels. It now has a magnificent double and triple track line and passengers no longer exchange bets inadvertently while sleeping.

At Cumberland, Md. the B. & O. splits with great emphasis, one-half passing through the American republic of Hades skilfully produced by the coke ovens of Conventville and the blast furnaces of Pittsburgh and eventually reaching Chicago. The other half reaches St. Louis.

The Baltimore & Ohio hauls tremendous quantities of coal and iron and steel and consumes a large amount of the finest scenery in the east. It is prosperous in spite of the fact that J. P. Morgan once sold it to the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad in cold blood.

POVERTY STRICKEN VOCABULARIES

BY RUTH CAMERON

When one knows a person intimately for many years, one can frequently tell just about what he will say under any given conditions.

It is a more or less common experience with most of us to find ourselves echoing in our mind the answer of some friend before he has spoken. Is it telegraphic? Perhaps so. It is by no means unthinkable that minds so attuned should send thought waves to each other, just as the wireless instruments send sound waves. But I think there is also a less interesting and more prosaic factor in this situation.

One reason why we know what our friend is likely to say is that we know his vocabulary. And that vocabulary is not sufficiently extended to make it difficult to select the words he will use. Because we understand the trend of his mind, we know what he will think; because we are familiar with his vocabulary we know how he will express it.

How Many Words Do You Use?

The vocabulary of the average man has been estimated at about 500 words; the uneducated, uses 300 or less. Shakespeare used about 15,000. This shows that the human mind is capable of. Compare that with the 500 that you or I, as the average man, use and let us think shame to ourselves that we are content to be so poverty stricken.

Just think, there must be at least 100,000 words in the dictionary (I am computing roughly from my dictionary, as I have no exact information at hand), and you and I, with all this wealth at our command, get along with a miserable 500, less than the hundredth part of our whole resources. What misers we are, to be sure.

Of course, you understand that 500 words represents a man's speaking and not his reading vocabulary. We meet words in books day after day and understand them perfectly and yet never benefit of introducing them into our conversation. Why should we, you ask, when we have familiar, simple words that express our meaning just as well.

Because these words do not express our meaning just as well. In a broad way they serve our purpose, but they do not express exact shades of mean-

HARDY'S

16 N. Tejon

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 9, 1885.

Most of the retail merchants of the city signed an agreement to close their stores at half-past seven every evening except Saturday.

Judge J. H. B. McFerran and others were talking of erecting a new hotel on the northwest corner of Tejon and Huerfano streets.

Hart brothers opened a dancing school in the south room of the Carpenter block.

Captain Givens reported that the sheep in El Paso county were in fine condition to weather the spring storms.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 9, 1895.

Sneak thieves were busy. One stole a bundle of blankets from in front of Hilbard's dry goods store and another got away with a fur coat from a dummy in front of Robbins' clothing store.

The ladies of the local W. C. T. U. received letters of thanks for the clothing sent to the Nebraska sufferers.

Mrs. W. P. Bonbright left for a trip to Philadelphia.

Considerable excitement was caused by the finding of a large tarantula in a bunch of bananas at James Simpson's fruit store.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if letters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space is not sufficient the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not take diseases "by the mail." Requests for such service cannot be answered.

DISINFECTION

Disinfection is a means used to destroy the organisms that cause disease. If employed conscientiously and with proper regard for scientific application, it often does great good. It should not be confounded with antiseptics, which are used to retard and prevent the growth and activity of germs, or deodorants, which are used to mask the unpleasant odor resulting from souring and spoiling of organic matter.

Nature has provided us with certain disinfectants—sunlight, dryness, air and dilution. By the use of nature's disinfectants many communicable diseases can be controlled. Sunlight will destroy many disease producing germs. Dryness also destroys germ life. Koch says: "That more drying destroys the germ that causes cholera." By proper regard for cleanliness, dryness, and sunlight, the vitality and activity of most germ life can be controlled if not destroyed.

We know the specific cause of many diseases. We also know the way in which they are thrown off from the body and the means by which they are transmitted to other bodies. This knowledge has made our efforts to control them quite effective.

In typhoid fever, dysentery and cholera the poisons are thrown off through the excreta from the alimentary tract and the urine. It should be disinfected by the application of chemicals.

In pneumonia, diphtheria, whooping cough, pulmonary tuberculosis and mumps the poison which causes the disease is in the sputum, and the sputum should be collected in paper cups or paper napkins and burned.

In smallpox, scarlet fever and measles the poison which causes the disease is thrown off through dead skin, and this material should be disinfected by heat or chemicals.

When possible, disinfection should be carried out under the direction of the health officer. Disinfection in the home offers much more difficulty than in the hospital. In the home clothing and all movable articles should either be boiled at home or taken to a disinfecting station for that purpose. Stationary articles should be disinfected in a room, preferably under the supervision of a health officer. He

They make it possible for us to be articulate, but not to be accurate. The artist, expressing his conception of a landscape in pigment on canvas, has recourse not only to the tube marked "Green" to paint trees and grass, nor only to the tube marked "Blue" to paint in the ocean or the sky, but to many other colors that express more subtly and definitely the exact shade he wishes to express. The better the artist, the closer and more subtle his interpretation of the many shades of nature. And the better the conversationalist, the closer and more subtle his expression of the many shades of meaning.

Making a Friend of this Dictionary.

The breadth and accuracy of a man's speaking vocabulary is the surest mark of his culture. Don't be afraid to use the words you find in books. If you can't pronounce them or fully understand their meaning, look them up in your dictionary.

And have the dictionary handy. Don't stow it away in the bookcase where it is a painful task to consult it. Make it part of your family life; a member of the family circle. Make a friend of it and teach your children to do the same and it will surely be a good friend to you and yours.

also should direct the cleaning of the room.

The disinfectant should know what, how and when to disinfect. To do this a register of the given case should be kept. He will then understand the type of the infection, the modes of transmission and the details necessary to do good work.

He will then know whether aggressive measures—the use of steam and strong chemicals—are necessary, or whether he can rely on thorough cleaning of the room combined with sunlight and fresh air. The material to be used, modes of application and strength of solutions of chemicals will all depend upon knowledge of these facts.

During illness a supply of chemical disinfectants should be kept on hand. Some reliable chemical agents used for disinfectants are mercury chloride (1 to 500), 3 percent carbolic acid solution (1 to 5), 5 percent chloride of lime solution. To the excreta an equal bulk of the disinfecting agents should be added and the mixture well stirred. As an extra precaution such excreta should not be deposited in vaults or other places where undestroyed germs in the mixture are likely to reach a drinking water supply.

MEAT AND RHEUMATISM
 H. H. K. writes: "It is a common thing for doctors to warn against red meat in case of rheumatism and other ailments. Will you please explain what is meant by red meats and what the dividing line is between red meats and those not red?"

REPLY.
 The advice not to eat red meat is but rarely given now. So far as ordinary rheumatism is concerned, such advice would not be good. Rheumatism is due to infection.

In gouty states advice based on the same principle as that in mind in advising against red meat would be good. One trouble about the advice was that the facts were wrong. The theory was that white meat contained less extractives and therefore made less uric acid.

The color of meat has no relation to the amount of extractives which it contains. A better rule would be to advise those parts of meat which are driest; for example, chicken breast is dryer and therefore better than chicken back. Meat that has been used as a soup stock is better than juicy steak.

The old prohibition of mutton and beef and liberty to use chicken and turkey was not well founded.

BOOKS FOR DIABETICS

COUP F HELD FOR DEATH OF WOMAN

ARLINGTON, Mass., Jan. 8.—The death here of Miss Irene Richardson, daughter of George M. Richardson, town auditor, was followed by the arrest of William J. Hyde, a bookkeeper at the Harvard Cooperative society, Cambridge, and Mrs. Marie Hanson, a nurse, as accessories before and after the fact, respectively. State and local police said they wished to question a Boston physician with offices in the Back Bay district, whose name, Miss Richardson gave to two other physicians.

SCANDINAVIAN STAR JOINS THE MOVIES.

Betty Nansen, Associate of Royalty, Comes to Pose for Films From the New York Herald.
It is seldom that the Scandinavian actress of New York has an opportunity to meet one of their countrywomen who has earned a place among the famous persons of Europe and that is why a large delegation of them was on the pier of the Scandinavian American church recently to welcome Miss Betty Nansen, who is considered one of the greatest tragediennes of the present day.
Miss Nansen, who is one of the principal women roles in the plays and one who has been in possession of several of the author's original manuscripts which he gave her as a token of his appreciation of her art. Not only as an interpreter of them, but of Shakespeare as well as the modern playwright.
But it is not to play in any of these plays that Miss Nansen has come here to be welcomed on the pier by the Danish consul, Count George Boell, and receive her passport to the United States. Instead, she, like Mme. Bernhardt and others, has succumbed to the lure of the "movies" but this will be the first time a foreign star has posed in American films.
William Fox is responsible for Miss Nansen's presence in this city and under the direction of James Durkin the first picture in which she will pose will be in "The World and His Wife."
Miss Nansen brought over with her some forty-five trunks. She values her costumes at $5,000.

Annual Meeting Held, Reports Made and Plans Outlined for New Year

J. G. Dern was elected chairman of the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting and dinner held last night at the Alamo hotel. A. E. Grimwood was named first vice chairman, J. R. Lowell second vice chairman and these with L. I. Newsome the retiring chairman, W. E. McElung, F. A. Sperry and F. G. Hayner constitute the executive committee.
A committee consisting of J. W. Gillis chairman, J. D. Hillbrand, F. E. Kohler and J. R. Lowell was named as a membership committee to devise ways and means to work up interest in the organization and increase the membership. There was a large attendance last night and a special vote of thanks was extended to the retiring officers.
Following is the annual report of L. I. Newsome the retiring chairman:
Following a year's successful work in an organized division of the Chamber of Commerce, our division, at its annual meeting January 16, 1914, adopted by-laws and as was therein provided, selected officers consisting of L. I. Newsome chairman, F. F. Wulff, first vice chairman, A. E. Grimwood second vice chairman, which three, together with L. H. Gowdy, Roy A. Davis, W. Daniels and M. B. Cloutworthy composed the executive committee.
At the February meeting the by-laws were amended to read: Active members shall be those whose chief business is that of retailing merchandise—associate members shall have the same rights as active members, except they are not eligible to any elective office.
Scenic Attractions.
Our division had as guests at the March meeting the managers of the hotels and scenic attractions of the Pikes Peak region. Practically every one of the hotels and attractions as well as the local street car company were represented. After short talks by our visiting guests, Leonard E. Curtis gave the principal address of the meeting. This meeting seemed to have expression to so much good will and was apparently so thoroughly pleasant and profitable that our of-

Miss Anne Morgan, Daughter of Financier, and Mrs. Astor, Titanic Widow, Help French Soldiers

MISS ANNE MORGAN
Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the financier and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, widow of the rich New Yorker who went down on the Titanic nearly three years ago, are at work to help the French soldiers in the field. This photograph, which is the latest taken of either woman, shows them in the rooms of the Lafayette fund, a creation of New York society women who have sympathy for the French soldiers. They are collecting clothing and other necessities for the men in the field.

Central Colorado Exposition.
Plans for the Central Colorado exposition were presented at the April meeting and a special committee authorized to cooperate with the agricultural committee. Prof. H. M. Cottrell, agricultural commissioner of the Rock Island lines addressed the members mentioning particularly the almost unparalleled favorable condition along agricultural lines in eastern Colorado. He explained how for the first time dry farming is on the right basis with the diversified plan of operation. He mentioned the importance of the show. He further emphasized the importance of the Central Colorado exposition. At this meeting L. A. Puffer presented plans for the mobility run through Texas and Oklahoma and by vote the plan was endorsed. The merchants' division endorsed and approved the budget plan of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

At the May meeting F. F. AMERICAN WOMEN'S WAR HOSPITAL
James H. Hart, in Leslie's
At Palatka, in Turkey, Devonshire, some 40 miles from Plymouth and a couple of miles from Portland, is a little American Women's War Hospital. Located in the mansion of Mr. Paris Singer who not only gave the use of the house to the Red Cross, but also donated $25,000 to the fund to operate it.

Try to imagine a wealthy man's magnificent country house standing on its own private grounds on the side of a hill just high enough to command a view of the Devonshire scenery and Torbay and turn enter it and find no expense has been spared to equip it as a first class hospital. Many beautiful fixtures have been torn out ruthlessly where required and leaden floors have been laid over wooden floors where necessary for sanitary purposes as in the operating room. It is not every hospital can boast of marble staircases and pillars, and fine oil paintings on its walls, and crystal chandeliers and chival glasses of artistic effects have not been allowed to interfere with its effective appliances.

The Hospital is devoted to the treatment of British wounded. Wards are named in honor of the wealthy American ladies who have donated large sums of money to its maintenance. You notice the names as Pickett Ward, Marlborough, Churchill, Leeds Astor, Vanderbilt, Harcourt, Singer.

Crocker Laughlin and Hadfield over the wards, and the gymnasium, turned into the largest ward, is named after Frank A. Munsey the American publisher who donated $25,000 to the fund. A splendid type of man has been selected as commandant in the person of Lieutenant Colonel Gunning. The doctors' staff are all Americans, comprising two of the units that came from the United States on the Red Cross steamer early in this war. The chief surgeon, Dr. Howard W. Beal, is undoubtedly the right man in the right place. There are 200 beds in the building and 50 more are to be added when the arena is converted into a ward. The swimming tank has been boarded over and the space utilized for beds.

The conservatory has been turned into a lounge and convalescent soldiers had a delightfully light room in which to read, or play cards or checkers. One of the most popular recreations was listening to the gramophones of which there were many. It was most amusing to hear the song that is on every soldier's lips today, the battle song of England, apparently but why, or wherefore nobody seems to be able to explain. It's a "Long Way to Tipperary." Most of the patients looked solemn and ill, but evidently enjoyed it and no sooner would it finish in one's ears than you heard it in another. Of course, "Comrades" was also a favorite. As I went through one ward, I heard "Stars and Stripes Forever" as I went through another ward. Then you saw a little group of men sitting around a fire in the grate and a beautiful mantel shelf above it. It would be very unusual if you didn't see at least one man and in many wards several men, knitting socks, muffers, anklets and other useful articles. One man was crocheting. "Twas pathetic to see him lying day and night on his back, his wounded leg in a vise, yet crocheting away for dear life. I am told that when Queen Mary visited the hospital a few weeks ago, she graciously accepted some of his work, and his cup of happiness was full then.
